

WHAT'S HOT WITH PEER RESEARCHERS

Authors: James Watson, Francisco Ibáñez-Carrasco, Maria Hatzipantelis, Ryan Kerr

Are you a peer researcher? Do you work with peer researchers?

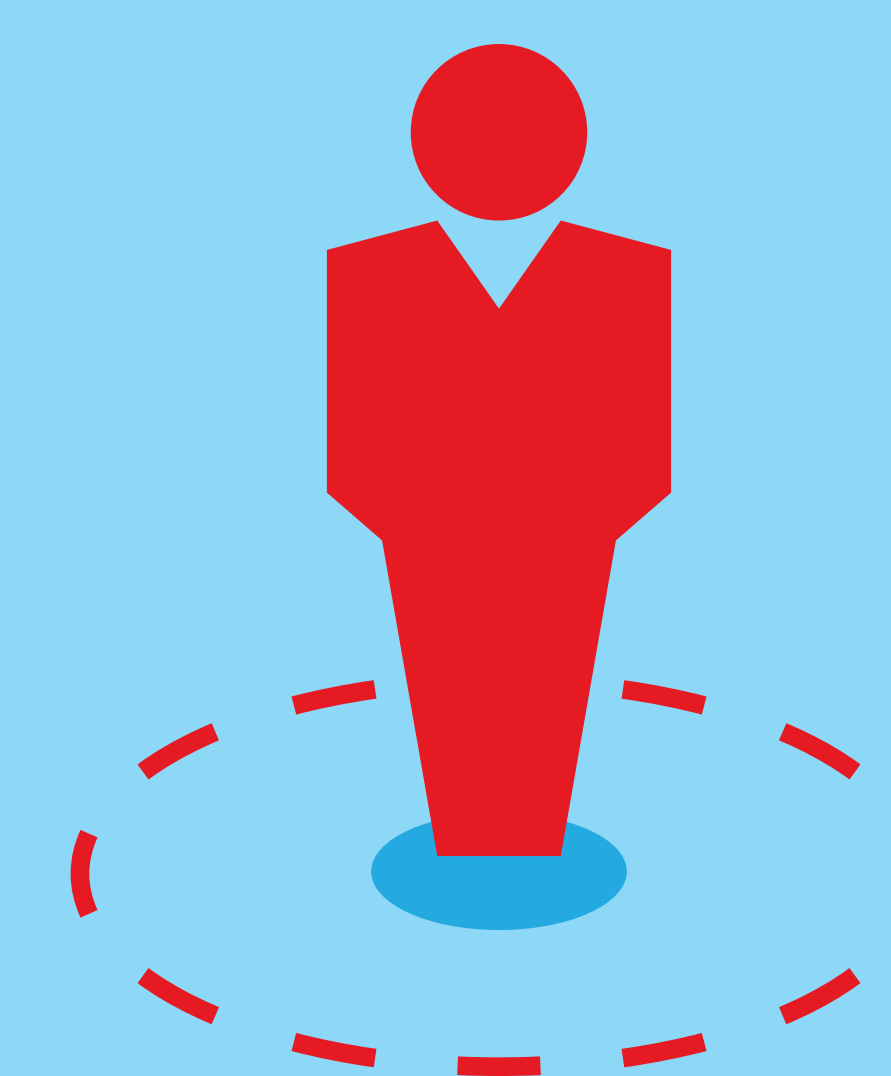

Learn about peer research in a non-formal education (talk show) format!

How fairly are peer researchers compensated?

How can you keep peer researchers engaged in all phases of research?

Why boundaries matter to peer researchers.

What is a peer researcher?

Peer Researchers are persons living with HIV who are trained to participate as co-researchers.

Participate in What's Hot with Peer Researchers, an online talk show.

Each month, you can join 40-60 peer researchers, students, frontline workers and researchers to chat about working with and working as a peer researcher. No download required, works in your web browser.

Non-Formal Education: By the Numbers

Input: 🕒 20 hours of staff and expert time to prepare each show.

Output: 🎤 13 sessions attended by 👥 500 people from all sectors.

Learning outcomes reported in ongoing evaluations: The show a) supports a community of practice in HIV community-based research in Canada, b) creates dialogue across silos of academics, activists and clinicians, and c) brings up key topics that often go undiscussed.
